Consumer's Risk (ability to bear los	s) and Return profile
(SRM) to calculate the likely number of Measure Guidance Paper For Trust such as the potential size of a negative objectives/needs. Issuers may wish to leverage, derivatives or short selling, m	sive risk assessment for each product. The FSC strongly recommends adoption of the Standard Risk Measure of negative annual returns over a 20 year period, using the guidance and methodology outlined in the Standard Risk tees. SRM is not a complete assessment of risk and potential loss. For example, it does not detail important issues return or that a positive return could still be less than a consumer requires to meet their investment supplement the SRM methodology by also considering other risk factors. For example, some products may use ay have liquidity or withdrawal limitations, or otherwise may have a complex structure or increased investment
Very high	 The consumer has a more aggressive or very high risk appetite, seeks to maximise returns and can accept higher potential losses (e.g. has the ability to bear 6 or more negative returns over a 20 year period (SRM 7) and possibly other risk factors, such as leverage). Consumer typically prefers growth assets such as shares, property and alternative assets.
High	The consumer is higher risk in nature and can accept higher potential losses (e.g. has the ability to bear up to 6 negative returns over a 20 year period (SRM 6)) in order to target a higher target return profile.
	Consumer typically prefers predominantly growth assets such as shares, property and alternative assets with only a smaller or moderate holding in defensive assets such as cash and fixed income.
Medium	 The consumer is moderate or medium risk in nature, seeking to minimise potential losses (e.g. has the ability to bear up to 4 negative returns over a 20 year period (SRM 3 to 5)) and comfortable with a moderate target return profile. Consumer typically prefers a balance of growth assets such as shares, property and alternative assets and defensive assets such as cash and fixed income.
Low	The consumer is conservative or low risk in nature, seeks to minimise potential losses (e.g. has the ability to bear up to 1 negative return over a 20 year period (SRM 1 to 2)) and is comfortable with a low target return profile.
	Consumer typically prefers defensive assets such as cash and fixed income.
Consumer's need to withdraw mone	ey
is not the only consideration when det	ance the redemption request frequency under ordinary circumstances. However, the redemption request frequency ermining the ability to meet the investor's requirement to access capital. To the extent that the liquidity of the idity constraints (e.g. ability to stagger or delay redemptions) could impact this, this is to be taken into consideration
Daily/Weekly/Monthly/Quarterly/ Annually or longer	The consumer seeks to invest in a product which permits redemption requests at this frequency under ordinary circumstances and the issuer is typically able to meet that request within a reasonable period.

Distributor Reporting
Significant dealings	Section 994F(6) of the Act requires distributors to notify the issuer if they become aware of a significant dealing in the product that is not consistent with the TMD. Neither the Act nor ASIC defines when a dealing is 'significant' and distributors have discretion to apply its ordinary meaning.
	The issuer will rely on notifications of significant dealings to monitor and review the product, this TMD, and its distribution strategy, and to meet its own obligation to report significant dealings to ASIC.
	Dealings outside this TMD may be significant because:
	• they represent a material proportion of the overall distribution conduct carried out by the distributor in relation to the product, or
	• they constitute an individual transaction which has resulted in, or will or is likely to result in, significant detriment to the consumer (or class of consumer).
	In each case, the distributor should have regard to:
	 the nature and risk profile of the product (which may be indicated by the product's risk rating or withdrawal timeframes),
	• the actual or potential harm to a consumer (which may be indicated by the value of the consumer's investment, their intended product use or their ability to bear loss), and
	• the nature and extent of the inconsistency of distribution with the TMD (which may be indicated by the number of red or amber ratings attributed to the consumer).
	Objectively, a distributor may consider a dealing (or group of dealings) outside the TMD to be significant if:
	• it constitutes more than half of the distributor's total retail product distribution conduct in relation to the product over the reporting period,
	• the consumer's intended product use is Solution / Standalone , or
	• the consumer's intended product use is Core component and the consumer's risk (ability to bear loss) and return profile is Low .
