MONTHLY SUMMARY

The Fund returned 11.0% for February. Long equities contributed to performance, whilst currency, hedging, and short equity modestly detracted from performance. It was a strong month for the Fund, with Nvidia being one of the key contributors to performance. The company's Q4 result highlighted continued growth in demand for its accelerated computing solutions because of the emergence of generative AI. Climate Aol position, Constellation Energy, reached new highs following a significant upgrade in forward guidance by management. Meta and Amazon were also key contributors, reporting better-than-expected results. Detractors for the month include Climate Aol position, Cameco, which experienced a downturn attributed to volatility within the uranium sector, and Digital Enterprise Aol position, Adobe, which came under pressure from perceived increased competition with OpenAI's Sora platform. Looking forward, the Fund maintains exposure to the thematic focus areas of High Performance Computing and Digital Enterprise, to capture the ongoing influence of AI as a key structural growth area. Elsewhere, we are seeing encouraging results in several of our Climate and Consumer investments. The Fund is 43% hedged back to AUD.
